LARA TRUMP, LAUREN BOEBERT ADDRESS SEPARATE BREVARD EVENTS

By Space Coast Tusk Editor Stuart Gorin

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK: MY TWO CENTS By Stuart Gorin

--It will be strange to me to think of Merry Old England without Queen Elizabeth II. I was a teenager and remember well the day when she became queen – because her father, George VI, passed away on the same day that my grandfather, Max, did. Some on the Left may criticize the Queen as having been a colonist, but I saw her rule – for 70 years, mind you – with grace and charm. And she did it all while here in America, we were led by 14 different presidents.

--Democrats called Joe Biden's 25-minute September 1 televised speech from Philadelphia's Independence Hall, the battle for "The Soul Of The Nation." Spiritual? Hardly. The purpose of his remarks seemed to be to attack, criticize, disparage, and threaten Republicans, especially MAGA Republicans. The speech was so low-down, under foot, and disrespectful, the better title would be the battle for "The Sole Of The Nation."

--It was interesting that the major television networks – ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox News – distanced themselves from Biden's speech, refusing to air his prime-time MAGA attack. But among those channels that did carry it were CNN, MSNBC and those dealing with local news.

Addressing separate jam-packed Republican fund-raising dinners in Brevard County, Florida, former President Donald Trump's daughter-in-law, Lara Trump, was the keynote speaker at the Republican Liberty Caucus of Central East Florida's annual Constitution Day Dinner on September 17, while the previous week, on September 7, Colorado Congresswoman Lauren Boebert spoke at the Brevard Republican Executive Committee's annual Lincoln Reagan Dinner.

Both events took place at the Radisson at the Port Resort on Cape Canaveral, and both speakers received standing ovations from their respective audiences.

Lara Trump had an interesting story to tell about her transition from a single, North Carolina-born culinary student in New York to playing a key role in the 2016 presidential campaign, and it all had to do with visiting a night club in the Big Apple. Standing 5'11" plus wearing high heels, she said she noticed a man there who was even taller and looked like a "possibility." It turned out to be Trump's son, Eric, and they soon became a couple.

--If you can believe White House Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre, in the less-than-two-year period President Biden has been in office, he amazingly added "ten thousand million" new jobs to the American economy. Wow! How many illegals had to enter the country and get hired in order to reach that level?

--A note to "woke" folks suffering from paranoia for spending too much time on Twitter and the like: there IS help out there. The National Alliance on Mental Illness has created a helpline that can be reached Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. – 10 p.m., ET. They can call 1-800-950-NAMI (6264), text "HelpLine" to 62640, or email them at helpline@nami.org.

--According to the "For The Right News" website, since 2021, more than 1,300 young and otherwise healthy athletes have suffered heart attacks, cardiac arrest, and other serious cardiovascular illnesses, and "this worldwide phenomenon only started after the COVID shots were rolled out." Two-thirds of those athletes died, the website reported. A second eye-opening study – of more than 13,000 children – found that 50-60 percent of them reported a "systemic reaction" to the first COVID shot or to a booster. The survey included more than 13,000 children, and among the more serious cases, 7,217 tested positive for the virus, reported shortness of breath, or died. Liberty Council Chairman Mat Staver says the CDC is now admitting the vaccines are not safe for children.

--In a bizarre campaign speech, the Republican-turned Independent-turned Democrat gubernatorial candidate – Charlie Crist – used a "Biblical comparison" of his campaign with that of Republican Governor Ron DeSantis, who is running for re-election. Crist compared himself to "Jesus Christ" in a speech, and the popular DeSantis to "DeSatan." He absurdly said, "It is crystal clear. He's bad. We're good." Yeah, right!

After word leaked out that FarceBook, the brainchild of Mark Zuckerberg (Sugarmountain?), spied on Americans and reported to the FBI the names of anyone critical of the 2020 election results, it was said that the absurd reason FarceBook did so was "to protect people from harm."

More Two Cents next month.

Even though she had no prior political experience, she said Donald Trump asked her to run his election campaign in North Carolina. Realizing the importance of women voters, she said she took a bus load of women around the Tar Heel state campaigning, and it was effective. Even though originally there were 17 Republican presidential candidates in the race, she said, "2016 was the most exciting campaign in history. We had the crowd behind us."

During the 2020 re-election campaign – in which she served as Senior Advisor – she said, "We then discussed all of his accomplishments during the first term –securing the border, Middle East peace, the strong economy, lower taxes, trade agreements, building up the military, and the like."

But now with the Democrats in power, she added, "We see disaster on the path to Socialism. The only way we can go forward is to take back the House and the Senate."

Today, Lara Trump is a Fox News contributor on several shows and hosts a weekly podcast called "The Right View." Applauded by the audience for saying she is now "a proud Florida resident," she said she was proud that her young son was able to recite the Pledge of Allegiance because he learned it in school in the Sunshine State. And speaking of Florida, she said that Governor Ron DeSantis is "the best Governor in the Country." She said his decision to send a busload of illegal aliens to Martha's Vineyard "was genius."

In her closing remarks, after stressing that "We need to bring back the MAGA Agenda," Trump referred to a phrase attributed to the humorous political tandem of Diamond and Silk, that "RED" stands for "Remove Every Democrat."

Also on the RLC program, businessman Dragos Sprinceana, the dinner sponsor, spoke of being born in Romania, where life was "ugly" under Communism, but being able to legally emigrate to the United States, where he founded, and now successfully operates, the transportation company GoldCoast Logistics, which has more than 650 trucks; 1,000 employees; and terminals in Florida, Illinois and Arizona. The company also has call centers in Europe and South America.

Sprinceana said he is "blessed to live in the best country on the planet – the United States of America," which offered him "Freedom and Equal Opportunity for all." Remembering what life was like in Romania, he said we have to "make sure we are doing everything in our power to stop radical liberals from implementing Socialism and destroying the foundation of this country."

Explaining that "we need to protect at all costs the U.S. Constitution, the Supreme Law that governs all of us," he said,

“That’s why we need to re-elect President Donald J. Trump, and I am disgusted and appalled by the fact that some of us embrace a candidate like Joe Biden, who supports radical Socialists. What is wrong with these people?”

Republican Liberty Caucus Chairman Bob White, who served as master of ceremonies for the evening, noted that this year’s dinner – the 14th annual honoring of our Constitution, our Founders, our Veterans, and our First Responders – actually occurs on September 17 – the day in 1787 that the delegates to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia finalized and signed the Constitution they had written. “In effect for 233 years, it is regarded as the oldest written and codified national constitution in force in the world,” White added.

He presented the Chairman’s Leadership Award to Mike Wilson, Chair of the Space Coast Patriots. The award consists of a plaque, which he will keep, and an oil painting of a colonial sailing vessel to be retained for one year, and then be presented for another year to the 2023 recipient.

Next on the program was the award of the Jefferson Cup, a replica of the ornate drinking vessel used by President Thomas Jefferson, given for dedication to the Jeffersonian principles of limited government, lower taxes, free and fair markets, and personal freedoms and responsibilities.

RLC- CEF Vice Chair Rocket Weiler presented the cup for Tina Descovich, former Brevard School Board member and co-founder of the nation-wide organization Moms For Liberty. Descovich was out-of-town and unable to attend in person but said in a video presentation that she was honored to receive it.

Brevard County Sheriff Wayne Ivey closed the dinner as auctioneer for attendees to bid on such items as a painting, a pistol, and a yacht trip.

In her keynote address at the September 7 Lincoln Reagan Dinner, Boebert – who was born in Florida but moved with her family to Colorado when she was 12 – spoke of the Founding Fathers’ “great example of faith, and who celebrated their freedom even before the battle for Independence began.” She added that returning to the Sunshine State to attend this event, “you can feel freedom when you land in Florida.”

Now 35, married to her husband, Jayson, and the mother of four sons, Boebert is serving her first term in Congress – “an experience” – and she said, “Our government deserves a Congress that does not have Nancy Pelosi as speaker.” A strong gun rights supporter, she also revealed that she owns a restaurant in Colorado “where waitresses have open carry.” Her first job as a teenager, she said, was as an assistant manager at a McDonalds restaurant.

“I do a better job of taking care of myself than the government could,” Boebert said. “Democrat policies are destroying our country; our federal government is out of control, and the just-passed Inflation Reduction Act is just another con game.” Referring to President Biden’s call to add 87,000 new IRS agents to the government payroll, she said, “I would rather see 87,000 new Border Patrol Agents.”

Noting that she is a Trump supporter as well as a proud member of the House Freedom Caucus, she added, “You are blessed” that Florida Eighth District Congressman Bill Posey is a member as well.

Boebert received applause from the audience when she said, “I am a professional RINO hunter,” criticizing the fact that too many Republicans are willing to go along with the Democrats’ policies.

She concluded her remarks by saying, “I do have hope. I love the country and its people. If I didn’t believe we wouldn’t turn things around, I would go home, but we are here on the right path. We will come back stronger than ever taking our country back.”

Following Boebert’s address, conservative political consultant and lobbyist Roger Stone was a late addition to the program, stressing that he has been Trump’s close friend for 42 years.

He explained that he had been arrested for crime that never happened – lying to Congress, and that when the FBI – accompanied by a photographer from CNN – came to his Ft. Lauderdale home at the cost to taxpayers of millions of dollars, they spent nine hours going through “every nook and cranny” in the home.

Stone said he was not allowed to defend himself, and on January 25, 2019, he was arrested in connection with Robert Mueller’s Special Counsel investigation, and charged in an indictment with witness tampering, obstructing an official proceeding, and five counts of making false statements.

In November 2019, a jury convicted Stone on all seven felony counts, and was sentenced to 40 months in prison. But on July 10, 2020, days before he was scheduled to report to prison, Trump commuted his sentence. On August 17, 2020, Stone dropped the appeal of his convictions, and the President fully pardoned him on December 23, 2020,

Stone stressed to the dinner audience that “there was a time when both parties were patriotic, but that Democrat Party no longer exists.” The fight, he said, “now is between good and evil.”

The “biggest problem today,” he said, is that “mass communications are censored. We need real Republicans, and in 2024, we must elect a president who will put America first.” Explaining that we “should not take the election for granted,” Stone said, “It will be tough, close and hard fought.”

Closing his remarks, Stone said, “We must re-elect Ron DeSantis as Florida Governor this year. There will be no Red Wave unless we recognize how tough the election will be.” He also received a standing ovation from the audience.

Brevard Republican Executive Committee Chairman Rick Lacey, who organized the Lincoln Reagan Dinner, presented four awards at the event. Plaques were presented to: Florida Eighth District Congressman Bill Posey as the Legislator of the Year. Since Congress was in session in Washington, it was accepted on his behalf by a member of his staff.

The Space Coast Association of Realtors as the Business of the Year.

Brevard State Committeewoman Kim Adkinson as Republican of the Year.

And the Editor was shocked, but pleased, to be called to the podium as the 2022 Volunteer of the Year. Speaking of The Space Coast Tusk, Lacey told the crowd, “If you do not receive the newsletter, get it.”

MEDIA RESEARCH CENTER 35TH ANNIVERSARY GALA

Hundreds of supporters of the Media Research Center – the nation’s premier organization devoted to refuting America’s liberal and biased media – traveled to Washington, DC, from throughout the nation on celebrate at MRC’s 35th Anniversary Gala in a dinner program that President and Founder Brent Bozell humorously named “Night of the Unwoke.”

The black-tie event was an opportunity to poke fun at the unhumorous politically correct and mock the worst examples of wokeism in politics and culture, and the evening was filled with a number of conservative celebrities making brief remarks.

Nationally syndicated radio host Chris Plante, served as master of ceremonies, and a lifetime achievement award was presented by WMAL radio host Larry O’Connor to syndicated columnist Cal Thomas, a suit-wearer who thanked MRC for the much-appreciated honor, and added, “I would have worn a tuxedo, but President Biden refused my student loan.”

Other honorees at the event were Tennessee Senator Marsha Blackburn, Conservative Partnership Institute Chairman Jim DeMint, “The Daily Wire” Co-CEO Jeremy Boreing, and “The Babylon Bee” CEO Seth Dillon.

The audience was treated to short humorous video clips in several categories, including “The Rant” and “The Screaming,” which were presented by Heritage Foundation President Kevin Roberts; and “Shallow Thoughts with AOC” and “Woke Witch Project,” presented by Convention of States Foundation President Mark Meckler.

A musical interlude was provided by “The Unwoke” – an MRC Staff combo.

Special guests political commentator and author David Limbaugh and radio host and author James Golden, also known as “Bo Snerdley,” reminisced about the late Rush Limbaugh, and what the long-time radio host meant to the MRC. And his brother said he would bet that 10,000 people have told him that Rush was “the best friend they never met.” Rush’s long-time producer and call screener added that what he began in the media has been brought alive by those of you in the room who are continuing the work – “You are Rush’s legacy.”

A surprise special guest for the evening was radio and tv host Mark Levin, who said, “I do not know what we would do without the MRC.” The fun evening ended with Bozell announcing that since it was Levin’s 65th birthday, he asked the entire audience to stand and sing “Happy Birthday.” This had been coordinated with Levin’s wife, and he was not aware it was planned.

In its 35-year history, the Media Research Center’s commitment to neutralizing leftist bias in the news media and popular culture has had a critical impact on the way Americans view the liberal media. When it began in 1987, only a small number of Americans believed that the media was biased. Today, that number has risen astronomically through cutting-edge news monitoring capabilities and a sophisticated marketing operation.

The divisions within MRC include the news analysis division – NewsBusters; CNSNews, which reports the stories the liberal media refuse to cover; MRCTV, which features original content and aggregated videos of the news, people and events which conservatives care about; Free Speech America, which reveals and fights the systematic campaign of online censorship against conservatives by the Big Tech companies; MRC Latino, which advocates for comprehensive, fair and accurate news coverage in U.S. Spanish-language media; MRC Culture, which fights to preserve and restore America’s culture, character, traditional values, and morals against the assault of the liberal media elite; and MRC Business, which is dedicated to advancing the culture of free enterprise in America.

LET ME BE FRANK
By Space Coast Tusk Designer
Frank Montelione

It was President Thomas Jefferson who said, “The government you elect is the government you deserve.”

We have Washington, DC Mayor Muriel Elizabeth Bowser; New York City Mayor Eric Adams; Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti; Chicago Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot; San Francisco’s Mayor London Nicole Breed; New York Governor Kathy Hochul, who replaced Andrew Cuomo; California Governor Gavin Newsom; and Illinois Governor J.B. Pritzker.

Then there are San Francisco Attorney General David Chiru; Los Angeles AG George Gascon; Manhattan DA Alvin Bragg; Chicago AG Kwame Raoul; and Atlanta’s Fani Willis, who is conducting one of three investigations against Donald Trump rather than deal with crime in his city.

Anti-Semitism is on the rise; anti-oriental crimes are on the rise; hate crimes are on the rise.

When speaking about the rampant crime crises we’re facing I could almost stop here. But when we see a shooting in Atlanta over mayonnaise on a Subway sandwich; the death of a McDonald’s worker in New York over cold French fries; the brutal beating of a 70 year old Asian women in Los Angeles for “kicks”; New York gubernatorial candidate Lee Zeldin attacked and his assailant back on the street within hours -- we need to recognize the problem in order to deal with it.

The above list is of elected officials apparently aligned with United States Attorney General Merrick Garland. As reported by Fox News and other media outlets, Garland called the uptick in violent crime in cities across the country a "matter of considerable concern," but he stopped short of acknowledging it as a crisis.

The first step in rectifying a crisis is being able to recognize and identify the problem. If the Justice Department considers the crisis that many large cities are having with crime a “matter of considerable concern”, and don’t recognize the issue as a problem, there is no hope in finding a solution to the crisis.

NY City Mayor Eric Adams said during a news briefing, "These bad guys no longer take them (laws) seriously. They believe our criminal justice system is a laughingstock of our entire country (make that the World)."

This coming from a party that epitomized “Defund The Police” during the 2020-21 summer of riots. This coming from Blue Cities that elected far left progressive District Attorneys.

What prompted this non-crisis crisis? It isn’t that hard to figure out: DA’s refusing to prosecute certain property crimes such as burglary; charging alleged perpetrators who commit felonies as misdemeanors; allowing rampant and brazen larcenies of stores; defunding the police; the disrespect of law enforcement officers which, in many cases, have seen the early retirement and resignations of many of those officers.

Here’s an idea: instead of spending millions if not billions trying to pass gun control legislation, redirect that money into mental health care. After all, who are the “victims” of gun control? The legal gun owner! I don’t believe criminals will walk into a gun store, subject themselves to background checks and abide by a waiting period before purchasing a gun.

Two things top the list of curbing crime – incarcerations, and most assuredly, NO CASH BAIL!

Add to that societies’ moral standards lowered to a base mentality that makes excuses rather than face the repercussions of dangerous actions.

I live just outside of Atlanta. One of the races garnering national attention is that for the Governorship of Georgia. As a former law enforcement officer, myself I watch, with incredulity, Stacey Abrams running ads of other former LEO’s making ridiculous statements saying that Governor Kemp’s open carry law is allowing criminals to carry weapons in public places. To put it bluntly, I want to scream at these people and ask them when did “LAW” stop a criminal from carrying weapons? One ad says that the new law allows the criminal to carry without a background check!!! This is how insane our society has gotten.

While I was still working as a police officer, I arrested a youth in his front yard in a low income slum area of my post for stealing, painting, and selling expensive bicycles. As we were in the process of taking him into custody, his mother came out and said, “boys will be boys”. The McDonald’s “French Fry” shooting perpetrator said he was disrespected, and “I had to do what I had to do”.

As reported in Law Enforcement Today, according to the often-bombastic Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, the recent uptick in violent crimes within New York City can be attributed to the notion that people “are scared to pay their rent” and “feel like they need to shoplift some bread”. Can someone explain that to me? I guess they also need large screen TV’s so they would feel better about themselves; they need to slash a female senior citizen; they need to push people in front of subway trains; and on and on.

As widely reported, the Democrats’ Senate leader stirred up the mob outside the Supreme Court, unabashedly threatening Justices Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh: “I want to tell you, Gorsuch. I want to tell you, Kavanaugh. You have released the whirlwind and you will pay the price,” Chuck Schumer inveighed. Fine examples to set for the country and the world to see.

I have so much more to say, but we’ll leave that for another day. Meanwhile, recall these District Attorneys and Attorneys General; be an informed voter; repeal no cash bail; prosecute offenders according to the LAW, not their personal belief; and fully fund and back the police. Simply put, enforce the law. It isn’t up to the elected officials to interpret the law. It is their job to enforce the law as written. SO, DO YOUR JOB!

BREC CORNER By Chairman Rick Lacey

Our normal September meeting on the 14th was scheduled instead as a birthday celebration.

Even heavy rain and a lightning storm could not dampen the enthusiasm as Brevard Republicans celebrated the 44th birthday of Florida Governor Ron DeSantis. Serving as a kickoff for this November’s Election, our special event featured a distribution of about 150 DeSantis signs that will decorate our lawns and a signing up of over a hundred volunteers to help create a red wave.

While the planned four-mile DeSantis sign wave will be rescheduled, everyone enjoyed a treat of three special DeSantis birthday cakes and refreshments.

And the Governor was sent a video of our group singing “Happy Birthday” to him.

School Board candidate Gene Trent and Satellite Beach Council candidate Stephen Sams were special guests of the event.

As Chairman, I reminded everyone that we need poll watchers as well as volunteers to campaign door-to-door, work the phone banks and staff the BREC tents for the 13 days of early voting, which begins October 24.

Also, remind your friends and neighbors that October 11 is the last day to register to vote.

RENDEZVOUS WITH REPUBLICAN WOMEN By BFRW President Jill Gentis

The Brevard Federated Republican Women’s monthly meeting September 7 featured a presentation by Don Pearsall, founder of Connections to a New Life and Certified Professional Life Coach. He recounted his personal experiences as a helicopter Crew Chief and door gunner in Vietnam and shared his own path to recovery from post-traumatic syndrome in his book “Back from the Front.”

Pearsall has a unique sensitivity to the psyche of homeless veterans who are still recovering and empowers them to take charge of their lives.

He also talked about the Brevard County Veterans’ Memorial Center Museum located on Merritt Island. The Museum, the third largest military memorial in the nation, has collected thousands of unique and representative artifacts from the Revolutionary War through the Ongoing War on Terror, including an artifact from the U.S.S. Arizona (sunk by the Imperial Japanese Navy in Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941) and an artifact from the Twin Towers (destroyed by Islamic terrorists on September 11, 2001). The goal of the Memorial Center and Museum is to educate the community and inspire present and future generations with the military’s service and sacrifice.

All present paused to remember and to “never forget” those who lost their lives as a result of the 9/11/2001 terrorist attacks on the Twin Towers, the Pentagon, and in Shanksville, Pennsylvania. The remembrance featured “The Names”, a commemorative poem written by Billy Collins, national poet laureate, and read before a special joint session of Congress in New York City on the first anniversary.

The meeting concluded with a presentation by a representative of Nana’s House Children’s Home, located in a gated community in West Melbourne. Nana’s House is a non-profit organization whose funding depends on contributions. Its mission is to provide housing and support for foster families who care for the neglected, abused, needy, and abandoned children.

The next BFRW Luncheon Meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 5 at the Space Coast Convention Center. Our speaker will be Larry Wilcoxson, Senior Advisor to Florida Congressman Byron Donalds. Reservations can be made by calling our 24-hour reservation line at 321-727-1212 or by purchasing tickets on-line at www.brevardfederatedrepublicanwomen.org.

FRWA IS "A CLUB OF ACTION"

By Recording Secretary

Carol Vyhonsky

At the September 2 meeting of the Federated Republican Women in Action (FRWA) in Palm Bay, the speaker, Joe Katz, RPOF Regional Field Director for Brevard and five other counties, stated his main job is to "organize voter contact," which involves the recruitment and training of volunteers to make contact with voters by door knocking, phone calling, etc.

Katz said he will be working to get all Republican candidates elected in November "from the bottom up," including School Boards, City Councils, and all the way up to the Governor. He started his career in politics in 2018, when he landed an Internship through the Congressional Leadership Fund and began interning for U.S. Representative Brian Mast's campaign. He then interned for U.S. Representative Ted Budd's campaign in Washington D.C.

In 2020, Katz became a Field Director for the Brian Mast campaign, and a Field Organizer for President Donald Trump's campaign. After the 2020 election, he was sent to Clayton County, Georgia, to help with the Senate run-off election, and worked as a poll watcher. He described the questionable activities he witnessed, such as the Supervisor of Elections site leaving and then coming back with a box of ballots. When asked about these events, the supervisor would not answer questions. Katz was disturbed by the lack of transparency and incompetence he witnessed. He stressed the need for transparency in elections so all voters can feel confident that our election process is fair.

Katz shared the statistics showing that someone is 6 percent more likely to vote for your candidate if a contact is made with that voter. There is also a 15 percent higher voter turnout in areas where voter contacts are made. He emphasized that now is the time to unite around all the Republican candidates and not hold a grudge that perhaps our preferred candidate did not win the primary. He stated if you agree with a candidate 80 percent of the time, that's okay. He also mentioned that the RPOF and the Governor Ron DeSantis campaign have merged. He announced that he is looking for young people to become interns, which is how he got his start.

Katye Campbell, newly re-elected Brevard County School Board member for District 5, briefly stopped by and thanked our members for all of their help and support given to her during her campaign. She also encouraged us to now focus our efforts on getting local Republicans for City Council in Palm Bay, Melbourne and West Melbourne elected in November.

Nathan White, candidate for Palm Bay City Council Seat 2, also stopped by and announced that there will be a Palm Bay Super Walk event on October 22, in which he will be joining with the RPOF and the campaigns of State Representative Randy Fine, Senator Marco Rubio, and Governor Ron DeSantis to knock on doors in Palm Bay.

FRWA, the Club of ACTION, will be busy promoting and volunteering for the Republican candidates who are up for election in November. Meetings are held at MeMaw's BBQ the first Friday of every month, and the next scheduled one, on October 7, will be at 5:30 pm. Guests are welcome and there is no cost to attend, but an RSVP is required. Visit www.frwabrevard.org for more information and to RSVP.

AN UPDATE FROM MY OFFICE By Florida State Senator Tom Wright

During the September month, I have spent much of my time traveling throughout District 14 to attend various events and meet with constituents and other elected officials.

A very exciting day was September 1, when I got to bring our new Commissioner of Education Manny Diaz, Jr. to District 14 for several meetings and a tour of a local high school. This day also gave newly elected Brevard County School Board member Megan Wright the opportunity to discuss with Commissioner Diaz any issues or challenges seen within our school system.

It is important to me that at every chance possible, I utilize my position as a State Senator to elevate the voices and concerns of my constituency.

Another highlight of this past month was when I got to take part in the official groundbreaking of a brand-new Brevard County Emergency Operations Center (EOC). The current EOC is located in a building that was built in 1964, making it the second oldest EOC in the state. The new facility will allow Brevard County Emergency Management to operate an updated EOC that can accommodate the needs of first responders and others who utilize the EOC 24/7 during times of activation. These updates will include state of the art technology, sleeping quarters, a full kitchen and more. This was a desperately needed resource for Brevard County due to the current EOC being one of the most activated EOC's in the country.

I appreciate everyone reading a quick update from my office, and should anyone ever need our help, please do not hesitate to reach out at 386-304-7630 or email at wright.tom.web@flsenate.gov. My office is always here to fight for you and listen to the concerns you have. I look forward to seeing many of you around District 14 and hope for the continued success of all residents.

REMEMBER WHEN
By Heitage Isle Republican Club
President Mike Hoagland

Remember when I took over as president of the Republican Club? The first words I spoke were, "I am a MAGA Trump supporter". That was in April of this year, and I periodically send out bulletins offering my opinion of the day. Also, as I have said, I am an absolute authority on my opinion.

I have received criticism from a few from time to time. An explanation of my thoughts is in order, I believe. America First conservatives are who will save this country. Who might these be? They could be a combination of American Patriotic MAGA citizens, Libertarians, some Democrats who can't support the progressive agenda of their party, even some Republicans and Americans who feel they have had no voice in government until Donald Trump came along. This group can't be polled. This group is too disparate for pollsters to identify in my opinion. Virtually every Trump endorsed candidate won his or her primary this season. Explain that.

A few critics say I dwell on Trump too much. I believe he is the only one who has the courage to do what needs to be done to save America. His policies were what gave us the best four years of prosperity in our history. Everyone had a piece of this success. He delivered on every campaign promise and more. No other politician in my 78 years can say that. Trump is the only positive campaigner on the stump with his rallies, and his message is America First....

Democrats are saying this election is important for our families and our country. What does that mean for Americans? Let me count the ways: 1) Continued inflation due to democrat policies. 2) Supply chain issues. One can't go to a store and depend on full shelves. 3) Energy crisis. We went from complete independence to reliance on foreign actors like Venezuela, Russia and Saudi Arabia. Increase in fuel costs. 4) Open borders. Criminals, terrorists and drug dealers come through our borders with impunity. 5) High crimes in major Democrat run cities which is increasing as a result of allowing criminals out on the street the same day of their arrest. 6) Fentanyl deaths at a record rate. Other drugs as well. 7) Illegal immigration. Our culture is being diluted and immigrants are given more benefits than needy Americans. 8) Education. Continued indoctrination of our youth with Marxist philosophies. 9) China Virus (COVID). Continues support for mask mandates....

Remember, I said that we should be prepared for the Democrats to engage in dirty political tricks. It is happening right here in Heritage Isle. Someone is anonymously sending a letter to residents without any return address or name on the letter itself. The writer claims to be a longtime Republican until now. The content of the letter attributes all the negative Democrat policies or positions to the Republicans, and as a result, says he or she will never vote for a Republican again. I guess the person is too ashamed to put a name on the paper.

AUDACITY AND IDIOCY

--President Biden, for unbelievably stating that "protecting pre-born humans is part of MAGA Republican extremism."

--MSNBC liberal host "Joyless" Reid, for absurdly commenting on the air that a rash of deaths of American spies overseas who were caught and killed in 2021 took place at a time when former President Trump "had custody of some really sensitive information that he shouldn't have had." The President was entitled to have classified documents, so what's the connection, "Joyless"?

-0-

--Alyssa Farah Griffin – the new "alleged, so-called conservative voice" with the Far Left ladies of ABC-TV's talk show "The View" – for claiming she wants to be the voice of Trump voters, but in the same breath, hypocritically asserting that the former president is semi-fascist, and someone she never wants to be president again. During the past Trump administration, she served as press secretary to the Vice President and to the Pentagon, and as White House communications director.

-0-

--The Colorado minor league baseball team The Rocky Mountain Vibes, for first agreeing to have two pro-life organizations – Save the Storks and Pikes Peak Citizens for Life – sponsor a family night at a game, with the organizations spending thousands of dollars and time toward the sale of more than 3,000 tickets for the game (even flying in an elite musician for a post-game concert), but then at the last minute cancelling the family night, claiming that the team's management "cannot allow a pro-family non-profit ministry to be a sponsor."

-0-

--The 246th Army Band of the South Carolina National Guard, for kowtowing to the Military Religious Freedom Foundation, which had demanded that it cancel its appearance at the annual "Carolina Celebration of Liberty" concert because it was held at the First Baptist Church in Columbia. MRFF founder Mikey Weinstein wrote to the Adjutant General of South Carolina that "The band's participation in this event would incontrovertibly and viciously violate the No Establishment Clause of the United States Constitution." Critics were angered because the church billed the huge celebration and production as a way to “celebrate our freedom as Americans and our freedom in Christ.”

--The City of Stockton, California, for first ordering long-time Fire Chief Ron Hittle to attend a leadership conference, and then firing him because the conference he chose took place in a church. Even though Hittle explained that the Summit – which he paid for – was the best leadership training he had ever attended and was highly beneficial for his career, that made no difference to the city officials, who opposed the religious aspect. First Liberty Institute is defending Hittle in a lawsuit before the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, arguing that the city’s actions were unlawful under the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, which protects against religious discrimination and harassment in the workplace.

--The California State Senate, for passing a bill that awaits Governor Gavin Newsom’s signature, to allow courts in the Golden State to take custody of minors from out of state who come seeking gender transition surgeries and cross-sex hormones, even if these actions go against the wishes of the minors’ parents. Legal experts and children’s advocates warn that the measure is unconstitutional and would cause severe harm to the health and wellbeing of children and egregiously violate parental custody rights.

--Georgia State Representative Dar’shun Kendrick, for confusing a person with an animal. Following news reports that “coyotes” were illegally bringing people into the United States, she tweeted: “How the hell does a coyote bring a whole human across the border?”

YOU CAN’T MAKE THIS UP

--What a difference a day makes! Here are two consecutive days of President Joe Biden’s tweets. On September 1, he tweeted: “Donald Trump and Make America Great Again Republicans are a threat to the very soul of this country.” Contrast this with a tweet one day later, on September 2, when Biden said instead: “I don’t consider any Trump supporter a threat to the country.” But it didn’t last long. Within a couple of days, he was back to attacking MAGA Republicans.

--On the same day the President held a White House lawn party to celebrate his billion-plus-dollar inflation reduction act – passed by the Democrats with RINO support – not only did the inflation figures that were released challenge that action, but the Dow Jones Industrial Average responded with a drop for the day of more than 1,200 points. It was the 13th day of the month, but NOT a Friday.

--Here’s more on the Biden administration: U.S. District Judge Terry Doughty in Louisiana ruled that It must turn over emails that Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre, Dr. Anthony Fauci, and other top officials sent to social media companies in response to a lawsuit claiming the White House colluded with Big Tech to censor viewpoints it disagreed with as “misinformation, a federal judge in Louisiana has ruled. It was the latest development in a lawsuit filed in May by Attorneys General Eric Schmitt of Missouri and Jeff Landry of Louisiana, who charged the executive branch acted in cahoots with social media giants like Facebook and Twitter to ““ censor freedom of speech” on a number of topics, including the COVID-19 pandemic and elections.

--President Biden was lost on stage following his U.N. speech. To watch, click here.

--According to a new book, “The Long Alliance: The Imperfect Union of Joe Biden and Barack Obama,” by Gabriel Debenedetti, RINO Utah Senator Willard “Mittens” Romney hatched a plan with Biden in 2018 to get rid of President Trump. Romney reportedly “begged” Biden to run against Trump in 2020 – an unconscionable Republican Party betrayal.

-0-

--Credit Where It’s Not Due. When the College Republicans at Cornell University asked for permission to plant 2,977 flags to honor the lives lost on 9/11, administrators at the Ithaca, New York, school denied the request, saying the grounds were needed for another event. But when they realized that plenty of space would still be available, the students planted the flags anyway. So, what did the administrators do? Why they publicized what “they” had done for the tribute, totally ignoring the College Republicans.

--As South Carolina Republican Senator Tim Scott is running for re-election, a Project Veritas report on his Democrat opponent, State Senator Krystle Matthews, has been so toxic, that numerous members of her own party are calling on her not only to withdraw from that race, but also to resign from her current position. An undercover Project Veritas video has Matthews using racially inflammatory language while encouraging criminal activity related to election procedures, such as tearing down election signs and using straw donations to fraudulently funnel money to political candidates. In an additional recording, she said White voters have to be treated “like s***, That’s the only way they’ll respect you.” And she said she keeps her current mostly White constituents “under my thumbs. Otherwise, they get out of control, like kids.”

--The CDC now admits that the majority of children between the ages of six months and five years old who received the COVID vaccine ended up suffering from a variety of local and systemic reactions, including irritability or crying, sleepiness, and loss of appetite. The Center said the adverse reactions occurred during the week after receiving either the Pfizer of Moderna vaccines, and that some parents reported their child was unable to perform normal daily activities, and others stated they were forced to seek medical care for their newly vaccinated child.

--Even more on the CDC. According to www.conservativenewszone.com, for the first time, the CDC has admitted knowingly pushing false information about efforts to track coronavirus vaccine safety. While the organization claimed it was monitoring vaccine safety dating back to 2021, Agency Director Dr. Rochelle Walensky admitted it did not begin doing so until March 2022 and did not even bother to analyze certain types of adverse events, even as people were being seriously harmed, or killed, by the experimental vaccines.

--A television commercial is promoting a new FX cartoon called "Little Demon," which includes dark images of Hell, demons, paganism and satanic imagery. The characters include a mother impregnated by Satan, her teenaged Antichrist daughter, and monstrous forces. So, who owns and markets this disgusting series? Why, none other than the "family friendly" Woke Disney Company.

--Perhaps because so many Californians are fleeing to the free state of Florida, the Governor of the Golden State is obsessed with his Sunshine State counterpart. California's Gavin Newsom has pledged money to help Florida's former Republican-turned Independent-turned Democrat Charlie Crist's efforts to defeat Ron DeSantis' re-election bid. But Newsom has learned that his in-laws – Kenneth and Judith Siebel, the parents of his wife, Jennifer – have donated to DeSantis. Not only that, but when Newsom shut down California during the pandemic, the Siebels pulled up stakes and moved to Florida, buying a home in Naples. Guess it's not always "All in the Family."

-0-

--Doctor and forensic psychiatrist Bandy Lee, who taught classes at Yale University about the crossover between crime and psychology, decided to diagnose former President Donald Trump while he was still in the White House, without actually meeting him. She then joined other professionals to write a book titled "The Dangerous Case of Donald Trump," in which they attempted to diagnose him with a mental illness. This led to her losing her job at Yale, so she sued the school for wrongly dismissing her. But on August 30, Federal Judge Sara Merriman dismissed the lawsuit. Wasn't it Dick Tracy who popularized the phrase "Slime Does Not Pay"? Sorry, we meant "Crime Does Not Pay."

--After the entire police force in the small town of Kenly, North Carolina – including the police chief – walked off the job in July, citing a hostile work environment caused by Justine Jones, the new Town Manager, the Kenly City Council held a closed session on September 6 and voted to oust her from the position to which she had been hired in June, only three months prior.

--Kelisa Wing, the self-described "woke" chief diversity, equity and inclusion officer in the Department of Defense's education branch, reportedly has a history of calling out white people on social media. Reports said Wing tweeted "I'm exhausted with these white folks in these professional development sessions." She even wrote that one person had the "caudacity" to say black people can be racist too. "Caudacity" is a portmanteau referencing audacity expressed by Caucasians. And referencing former President Donald Trump, Wing called him "the whole boy version of a Karen."

--The U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado is encouraging cisgender women, transgender women, non-binary, agender, bigender, two-spirit, demigender, genderfluid, genderqueer, and other forms of gender minority to apply for a fellowship program for "gender minorities." But the application on the fellowship's website points out that if you are a cisgender (pertaining to gender identity corresponding with a person's sex assigned at birth) man, "this program isn't for you." Flying "high" in our Air Force!

THIS AND THAT

FLORIDA SENATOR MARCO RUBIO. A hot dog and apple pie meet and greet was held at the Melbourne Auditorium on September 17 for Florida Republican Senator Marco Rubio, who is being challenged by Democrat Congresswoman Val Demings, the former chief of the Orlando Police Department. During his remarks, Rubio touted the support of 55 of the state's sheriffs, as well as the Florida Police Chiefs Association, the Fraternal Order of Police and the Florida Police Benevolent Association. He said the record shows that Demings supported legislation defunding the police and voted 100 percent with Speaker Nancy Pelosi. He quipped that even Pelosi did not vote for herself 100 percent of the time. Currently leading in the polls just outside of the margin of error – 48-44 percent – Rubio urged the meet and greet attendees to show up at the polls and vote Republican.

FLORIDA ATTORNEY GENERAL ASHLEY MOODY. In her bid to win re-election in November, Florida Attorney General Ashley Moody has been endorsed by 64 out of 66 of the state's elected sheriffs. Calling them "pillars of our law enforcement community," Moody said, "We owe a debt of gratitude to these selfless and dedicated leaders who risk their lives each day to protect and defend our state and our nation. Now is the time to defend, not defund, the police, and I am proud to always have their back as together we work to combat human and drug trafficking, opioid addiction, senior scams, and more.”

BREVARD SUPERVISOR OF ELECTIONS. Denying that the Governor or illness were involved, Brevard County, Florida, Supervisor of Elections Lori Scott

suddenly announced her resignation – after the state’s primaries were conducted, but before the November general election. It was then up to Governor Ron DeSantis to appoint a replacement to finish the term of office in 2024. Scott recommended Tim Bobanic, her long-time Information Technology Director, for the position, and DeSantis agreed. The position will again be on the ballot in 2024. Bobanic, who will assume the Supervisor duties October 1, said, “I look forward to continuing the legacy left by Lori Scott in conducting accurate, secure and transparent elections in Brevard County.”

In Florida’s August 23 Primary Election, there were non-partisan races for County School Board positions, and The Leadership Institute’s President Morton Blackwell reported that among the victors in those races were more than 21 solid conservative winning candidates – ten of whom were trained in L.I.’s new School Board Campaign Training Program. “Those new school board members will positively impact thousands of children across Florida,” Blackwell said.” They’ll use their influence to wrestle control of education away from the radical left teachers unions and restore control to parents, where it belongs.” The project helps free thousands of schoolchildren in Florida from the leftist control of their education. One of the victors, he said, is Bridget Ziegler in Sarasota, whom he hired earlier to be the Director of School Board Trainings at LI. She also was an incumbent candidate, and three other conservatives swept the vote for the Sarasota school district to flip control of that school board to a 4-1 conservative majority. And in her new role, she will use her firsthand experience to train other conservatives across the country to win in their districts.

IT’S AN “OOPS” FROM THE U.S. CENSUS BUREAU. During the 2020 population count by the U.S. Census Bureau, it now admits it “mistakenly” undercounted the population in five red states, and overcounted it in seven blue ones. The red undercounts were in Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Texas – joined as well by Illinois; and the blue overcounts were in Delaware, Hawaii, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, and Rhode Island, joined by Utah. Some of the consequences of these “mistakes” were that based on total population, Florida and Texas should have received additional seats in the U.S. Congress, while Minnesota and Rhode Island should have lost one. And since a lot of federal funding is tied to population, this also means hundreds of millions of dollars will be sent to overcounted states at the expense of the undercounted ones. Unfortunately, there is NO remedy for these errors; the numbers are final, and the next census will not be until 2030.

To serve as a guide for assessing education freedom in each state, the Heritage Foundation has published the first edition of what will be an annual Education Freedom Report Card for each state and the District of Columbia. The report card measures four broad categories: School Choice, Transparency, Regulatory Freedom, and Spending – using more than two dozen factors. In the inaugural 2022 edition, Florida is the top-ranked state across the board, and Arizona is in second place, with Idaho coming in third. At the other end of the spectrum, New Jersey, New York, and the District of Columbia came in 49th, 50th, and 51st respectively – doing little to provide families with transparency, accountability, and choice....In other action, Heritage has issued a pamphlet titled “The Five Lies of CRT,” which refutes that 1) “CRT is not taught in schools.” 2) “CRT is just a way to give previously marginalized people the attention they have lacked.” 3) “CRT is not Marxist.” 4) “Those opposed to CRT just don’t want history taught.” And 5) “The use of CRT is a cynical ploy by Republicans.” Heritage says the pamphlet will help educate Americans across the country on Critical Race Theory and other issues like Socialism. Other actions, it said, will allow its more than 100 policy experts and researchers to testify before Congress dozens of times throughout the year to provide principled policy solutions to our nation’s problems, and ensure that Heritage experts appear daily in America’s top news outlets and other media to rally your fellow citizens.

THE CURIOUS CASE OF THE DOMINION VOTING MACHINE. First, a Dominion Voting Machine that was used in the controversial 2020 election in Michigan went missing. State officials do not know how it got there, but nearly two years later, a Goodwill Industries Thrift Store in Cadillac, Michigan, put the voting machine in an online auction, in which an Ohio Uber driver successfully bid $7.99 for it. Making more than a quick buck on the machine, the man then listed it on E-Bay, with the following note: “Own a piece of history! This voting machine was one of thousands used in the 2020 United States presidential election and included in one of the many lawsuits against Dominion that were thrown out.” He then sold the machine for $1,200 to Connecticut resident Harri Hursti, one of America’s foremost election machine security experts. Hursti then notified the Michigan Secretary of State's Office and was instructed not to open the box the machine came in, but preserve it for law enforcement, who may need to wipe it for fingerprints. Next came an email saying, "Thank you again for bringing this to our attention. We have determined this device originated in one of our jurisdictions. The jurisdiction has now reported the device to law enforcement as stolen." But Michigan's Democrat Secretary of State, Jocelyn Benson, who oversees elections held in the state and notably refused to investigate allegations of voter fraud from whistleblowers in the 2020 election, responded to the news by claiming that the missing Dominion voting machine being sold online "does not necessarily mean that there has been a lapse in voting security." She added, "Michigan's elections are secure. Before every election, we test every machine for accuracy. We've never seen, even with this unauthorized access to machines, any actual evidence of any challenges or wrongdoing or lack of security in the process. While our elections remain secure and safe, we take seriously all violations of election law and will be working with relevant authorities to ensure there are consequences for those who break the law." Hursti's further comment was that "election officials in Michigan were not even aware that they had been missing a voting machine. It is shocking that only when we started asking, 'Does it belong somewhere?' Only after that, did they realize it had been stolen."

ANTI-COVID VACCINES. It took questioning by the Romanian member of the European Parliament, Cristian Terhes, to get officials from Moderna and AstraZeneca to expose some serious secrets about the safety and efficacy of anti-COVID vaccines – secrets the manufacturers would rather have kept hidden from the public. Moderna CEO Stephane Bancel admitted that because the vaccines were produced quickly at the request of governments, they were granted certain liability protections, which means they cannot be held accountable for any adverse reactions from the experimental jabs off of which they are making billions. AstraZeneca Executive Vice President Iskra Reic confirmed this was the case. Bancel further admitted the manufacturers knew full well that their vaccines did NOT prevent the spread of the virus, a claim which many governments made in order to force the injections on their citizens.

. The September 1 meeting of the Heritage Isle Republican Club was devoted to a viewing of the Dinesh D'Souza documentary film "2000

Mules" – explaining how paid "mules" stuffed ballot boxes in six swing states during the 2020 presidential election. HIRC President Mike Hoagland said there was a great turnout for the meeting, and the video was "very revealing and frightening." Since the film shows that President Trump really did win the election, there is "no wonder the political elites won't address it." Noting that the media, Democrats, social media, Washington bureaucrats, RINOs, globalists, lobbyists and social elites "will do whatever it takes to defeat America" in the 2022 and 2024 election cycles, Hoagland said that "all America First patriots need to stay vigilant and committed. We can't take anything for granted."

EXPERTS' EXCERPTS

Heartland President James Taylor, writing on reversing Biden's deliberate energy crisis, in "The Heartlander" quarterly report:

"With the Biden administration doubling down on its policies to restrict the production of and use of oil, coal, and natural gas, it is fair to wonder whether $5 gasoline is an unforeseen and unfortunate occurrence or the desired policy goal of the administration. It is hard to imagine a more self-punishing energy policy than what Joe Biden has imposed on the American people. Biden has largely ended oil producers' access to federal lands. Pipelines to deliver the remaining oil that is being produced are being shut down throughout the nation. The Biden administration is urging financial institutions to impose environmental, social, and governance (ESG) agendas that block financing for new oil production. By vowing a zero-carbon dioxide economy by 2035, Biden is making sure no new oil refineries will be built. The list goes on and on. After Biden decided to risk our national security by releasing oil from America's Strategic Petroleum Reserve, much of the oil was sent to Hunter Biden's former business partners in China to benefit Chinese consumers instead of Americans. American gasoline prices are now more than double what they were when Joe Biden was elected president. Biden continues to pour fuel on the fire, calling the high gasoline prices he has created 'an incredible transition' to an economy without oil, coal, or natural gas. It's time to fight back, and The Heartland Institute is all-in, battling for a return to affordable, abundant American energy.... Heartland is educating policymakers on how to reverse the Biden administration's anti-American energy policies when the new Congress is seated in January 2023. It is crucial to hit the ground running when the new Congress takes over, and Heartland is providing in-person information and strategic advice to get this done."

American Security Council Foundation Senior Analyst Laurence Sanford, writing on Socialism - The Road to Serfdom, at www.conservativehq.org:

"The United States is on the socialist road to serfdom. Recent government actions on this road to hell include: doubling the number of IRS employees to monitor U.S. citizens; Wuhan virus (Covid-19) lockdowns; climate change hysteria; throttling carbon based fuels; funding of green energy to the benefit of Communist China; drug price controls; massive federal spending to debase the currency; and a two-tier system of justice. The book 'Road to Serfdom' was written by F.A. Hayek in 1944 during World War II as a warning that every step away from free market capitalism toward government planning was a step away from freedom and a step toward totalitarian dictatorship. Hayek was concerned that government wartime control of life would be carried over to peacetime and that people conditioned to following government orders in wartime, would continue following government orders in peacetime. Socialism, Fascism, and Communism are of the same totalitarian philosophical school. This school paints a fantasy picture of heaven on earth with all people made happy by abolishing or controlling private property rights, and by the government owning, planning, or controlling the means of production and property. Individual rights and freedoms are eliminated as the government controls and redistributes wealth. In other words, the government confiscates wealth from one group of citizens and gives it to another group of citizens deemed more worthy by the elite.... Capitalism is the only economic system compatible with human dignity, prosperity and freedom. The private profit-seeking sector has resulted in the greatest prosperity for more people in history. If government control were the key to prosperity, then Communist societies would be the richest in the world, whereas in fact, they are the poorest. When the Soviet Union fell, did the newly freed captive nations continue with Communism? Yet Progressives continue to believe that the government can fix everything. And as usual, progressive utopian visions lead to dystopian realities. How is green energy working out in Europe? How is inflation working out for the average American? We are seeing in America the manifestations of totalitarian rule. Cancel Culture routinely shouts down conservative speakers on campus, with the school administration doing nothing to protect the concept of 'free speech'. Silicon Valley social media distorts and bans viewpoints that do not conform to Marxist progressive ideology. Government doublespeak Wuhan Virus medical treatment and lockdown opinions. The Judicial system has evolved into a two-tier system where Capitol Hill trespassers rot in jail and Black Lives Matter rioters, who burned down cities, escape prosecution. The malicious mainstream media is the propaganda arm of the Marxist progressive agenda. "The 1619 Project" rewrites history.... DEI (Diversity, Equity, Inclusion) is a Marxist progressive socialist program to supposedly level the playing field. As Shakespeare's Hamlet said, 'the devil has the power to assume a pleasing face.' The more appropriate acronym should be DIE because socialism means people will die, both physically and spiritually. Progressives believe the elite should control because they are smarter than you and I. 'Animal Farm' written by George Orwell in 1945 is a fairy tale of farm animals overthrowing the human farmer so they all can be equal. Of course, after the overthrow, no such equality happens, and the pigs take control over the other farm animals. Orwell also wrote '1984' which is frighteningly prescient of today. The United States has a government 'of the people, by the people, and for the people' with freedom and prosperity. Totalitarian socialism has people who are simply cogs of the government with dystopian dictatorship and poverty. We have met the enemy and he is us. Citizens of America – Unite. Vote."

Thomas Spoehr, Director of the Center for National Defense at the Heritage Foundation, writing on The Rise of Wokeness in the Military, in Hillsdale College's "Imprimis" publication:

"Wokeness in the military is being imposed by elected and appointed leaders in the White House, Congress, and the Pentagon who have little understanding of the purpose, character, traditions, and requirements of the institution they are trying to change. The push for it didn't begin in the last two years under the Biden administration—nor will it automatically end if a non-woke administration is elected in 2024. Wokeness in the military has become ingrained. And unless the policies that flow from it are illegal or directly jeopardize readiness, senior military leaders have little alternative but to comply. Woke ideology undermines military readiness in various ways. It undermines cohesiveness by emphasizing differences based on race, ethnicity, and sex. It undermines leadership authority by introducing questions about whether promotion is based on merit or quota requirements. It leads to military personnel serving in specialties and areas for which they are not qualified or ready. And it takes time and resources away from training activities and weapons development that contribute to readiness. Wokeness in the military also affects relations between the military and society at large. It acts as a disincentive for many young Americans in terms of enlistment. And it undermines wholehearted support for the military by a significant portion of the American public at a time when it is needed the most.... In 2015, near the end of his second term, President Obama initiated a change to the Pentagon's longstanding policy on transgender individuals in the military. Before that change could take effect, the incoming Trump administration put it on hold awaiting future study. Subsequent evidence presented to Secretary of Defense James Mattis—including the fact that transgender individuals suffering from gender dysphoria attempt suicide and experience severe anxiety at nine times the rate of the general population—raised legitimate concerns about their fitness for military service. This led the Trump administration to impose reasonable restrictions on military service by those suffering gender dysphoria. But only hours after his inauguration in January 2021, President Biden signed an executive order that did away with these restrictions and opened military service to all transgender individuals. Since then, the Biden administration has decreed that active members of the military can take time off from their duties to obtain sex-change surgeries and all related hormones and drugs at taxpayer expense.... Much of the emphasis of wokeness today is on promoting the idea that America is fatally flawed by systemic racism and white privilege. Our fighting men and women are required to sit through indoctrination programs, often with roots in the Marxist tenets of critical race theory, either by Pentagon diktat or through carelessness by senior leaders who delegate their command responsibilities to private Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion instructors. These indoctrination programs differentiate service members along racial and gender lines, which runs completely counter to the military imperative to build cohesiveness based on common loyalties, training, and standards. The bottom line is that precious time and money are being poured into woke programs and projects that would be better applied towards making the military more capable. The billions of dollars that will be spent on Pentagon climate change programs, the time and money spent in creating DEI structures and hiring DEI commissars, and the time spent indoctrinating service members in critical race theory and addressing an imaginary crisis of extremism in the ranks—all this detracts from the purpose of our military: preserving the security and freedom of the American people and nation....The American military remains a faithful and loyal servant of the republic. Most Americans are still proud and trusting of our military. But this trust and support cannot be taken for granted. If Americans perceive that the military is being exploited for political purposes or being used for experiments in woke social policies, that support will evaporate, and the consequences will be dire. My hope and my prayer are that we figure this out before it is too late.”

“It’s no secret radicals in our education system are brainwashing young students, especially minority students, to embrace socialism, hate America, and reject the principles of liberty... but that’s not the worst part. Sadly, something far more sinister and eviller is unfolding in our public school system. Before I tell the dark secret about what’s happening in classrooms across our country, allow me to introduce the BLEXIT Foundation. I co-founded the BLEXIT Foundation as a nonprofit organization dedicated to reaching urban communities, Black and Hispanic men and women, and young people. Our message to America’s black and minority communities is promoting economic independence and individual freedom, strengthening the nuclear family, and fostering a deeper appreciation for patriotism in Black American culture.... Radicals and those preaching Critical Race Theory in the classroom have two evil objectives with their students: Teach students they are victims, SND Divide the nuclear family. The culture of victimhood being pushed in our classrooms is impoverishing minority communities, creating division, hurting families, and fostering hatred for America’s values within our school system. Black and Hispanic students are being taught they have no hope. They are being brainwashed to believe 100% of police officers are racist and that they should be considered an enemy, and they are being indoctrinated to believe the nuclear family doesn’t matter and should be rejected. You and I must fight back and defeat this disgusting narrative. The BLEXIT movement is a black exit from the culture of victimhood, hatred, and dependence. We are fighting for our core values of Faith, Family, and Freedom. Our voice MUST be heard by young people, minority communities, and families trapped in a system that wishes to enslave them as victims and destroy the family.... The BLEXIT movement enters communities such as Baltimore, Detroit, Oakland, Chicago, Tampa, and areas where most dare not enter. We aren’t preaching to people who already agree with us. No, we’re actively connecting with and serving communities who need help and have never heard our message of faith, family, freedom, entrepreneurship, independence, and patriotism. Here is a short list of what the BLEXIT movement is doing to fight for these values: 1) Teaching REAL American History: Students are being taught “Critical Race Theory” which is ultimately propaganda teaching them to hate America and accept a victimhood mentality. BLEXIT is teaching students about real American history, the values that make our country so successful, and the wisdom of our Founding Fathers. 2) Skill Trainings: Our public schools are failing to teach young minorities the basics. We literally teach young students how to use Excel, write a cover letter, create a resume, and how to apply for jobs. We are empowering young people with hope and opportunity. 3) Fighting for School Choice: We must create opportunity and help minority communities escape the brainwashing centers they are FORCED to attend because of government unions. School Choice, homeschooling, and alternative education options will empower minorities to achieve the American Dream. 4) Encouraging entrepreneurship, the importance of family, and fostering patriotism in Black America is working. Which is why BLEXIT has over 14,000 members! Young people want to be independent, take responsibility, and escape poverty. BLEXIT is giving them a chance.”

Author and columnist Cal Thomas, writing on California dream could become a nightmare, at Tribune Content Agency LLC: “California has become an example of what a state looks like when it is controlled by a single party – in this case Democrats – who are trying to impose a green energy secular religion on their people. State officials have banned the sale of gas-powered cars by 2035, but a preview of the nightmare that could occur in the near future is happening now. Facing a heat wave this week and the high chances of rolling blackouts, Californians are being told to turn up the temperature on air conditioners to at least 78 degrees and not charge their electric cars on Sunday afternoons and evenings. If there isn’t enough electricity to charge the current number of electric cars in California (estimated by the office of Governor Gavin Newsom to be 1 million plug-in electric cars, pickup trucks, SUVs and motorcycles), how much confidence should Californians place in the availability of electricity in 2035 and beyond? There are approximately 29 million cars, light trucks and motorcycles in the state. By some estimates it will take fifteen years to fully transition to all electric vehicles. Currently, reports the Associated Press, California has about 80,000 re-charging stations in public places....’Cal Matters’ columnist Dan Walters gets to the heart of the problem for electric car enthusiasts: ‘Let’s say someone living in San Francisco wanted to drive to Lake Tahoe for skiing? A 150-mile range would not even cover a one-way trip. The solution might be lots of recharging stations along interregional highways, but whereas a fill-up of gasoline might take 10 minutes, recharging electric cars now takes much longer. Is California willing to build the hundreds of thousands of recharging stations a complete conversion to battery-powered cars would require? Could Californians drive their mandated ZEVs into other states without running out of juice? There are other concerns, such as the cost of EVs, the life of batteries and the high cost of replacing them, the source of lithium from countries that are poor practitioners of human rights, as well as where all the required new electricity will come from (mainly fossil fuels now, though greenies think costly and ugly windmills, wind and solar sources can produce sufficient power, which is unlikely). There is little consideration for increasing the availability of nuclear power, again because of the left's antipathy toward that clean energy source. Then there is the premise on which 'climate change' is based. It is more theoretical than scientific (remember 'global cooling?'); more political than logical. With China and India still producing the most CO2, will electric cars in America address the perceived problem? Not according to David Kelly, academic director of the Master of Science in Sustainable Business Program at the University of Miami: 'You have to think about what the lowest cost way is to get where we want to go. So, if the goal is to reduce carbon emissions or other pollutants, then electric vehicles are unlikely to be that.' Kelly drives a Tesla. California is ordering its people to abandon choice when it comes to transportation in favor of expensive electric vehicles that are unlikely to provide the freedom they now enjoy with their gasoline-powered cars, all because of a secular faith that claims to know best what is good for us."

"The 2022 midterms will likely shape the future of the country for years to come, and just as the FBI appears to have influenced the 2020 election, liberal bureaucrats have 'made mistakes' that just happen to benefit Democrats. As Nancy Pelosi worked diligently to try and take over elections to tilt them in her favor and liberals pretended gerrymandering doesn't benefit them, the Census Bureau was busy 'accidentally' giving Democrats more seats in the House of Representatives and more votes in the Electoral College. In a stunning report, the U.S. Census Bureau recently revealed mistakes that will shape federal elections and funding over the next decade. Liberals in the federal bureaucracy don't even seem to be trying to hide this one. Of the eight states that were overcounted, all but one were blue states. Among the states that were undercounted, all but one were red states. The Census Bureau did not explain how it made such a costly mistake.... The original census reported that Florida needed only 171,500 more residents to gain another congressional seat. Yet the survey shows that Florida was undercounted by over three-quarters of a million people. The bureau also said that Texas needed only 189,000 more people to gain another congressional seat. The survey shows that Texas was undercounted by 560,319 residents. Minnesota, according to the original census report, would have lost a congressional seat during reapportionment if it had 26 fewer residents; the survey shows the state was overcounted by 216,971 individuals. Similarly, Rhode Island would have lost a seat if the Census Bureau had counted 19,000 fewer residents. It turns out that the state was overcounted by more than 55,000 individuals.... Even if the states most affected could win a case in court, how would you come up with a remedy? Ordering the Census Bureau to conduct another actual recount in the 14 affected states would be a complex, expensive undertaking that would provide numbers on a different date than the original census whose population totals from April 1, 2020, would still be in effect for the rest of the states, raising fundamental fairness issues given the high mobility of our population. And ordering a new census of the entire nation also seems impractical. But there is no question Congress needs to get to the bottom of what happened. It must use its oversight authority to investigate the Census Bureau, its methods, procedures and operations to determine how and why these errors happened. We have to ensure that the necessary changes are made that won't allow this to happen again.... It's probably just coincidental how those mistakes always seem to go in one direction or something. Otherwise, it might seem like a completely perfect system for Democrats."

THOUGHTS TO PONDER

"Joe Biden and Big Tech colluded to silence your freedom of speech and shut down your voice on the largest communication platforms in the world. That is an assault on democracy. Joe Biden and his Department of Justice labeled concerned parents who speak at school board meetings as domestic terrorists That is an assault on democracy. Joe Biden has unilaterally rewritten the immigration laws of the United States, defying Congress and the Constitution that binds us all. That is an assault on democracy. Joe Biden's government has shielded his family and his administration from accountability of abuses of power and foreign dealings of his son for personal gain. That is an assault on our democracy. Joe Biden and the politicized Department of Justice launched a raid on the home of his top political rival, Donald Trump. That is an assault on democracy."

"It was all a setup. Trump supporters were framed by FBI and government operatives and BLM and Antifa terrorists. A leaked internal memo revealed that the U.S. Capitol Police intel unit warned that BLM from Baltimore was busing in rioters for January 6th protests. According to the memo the rioters were going to blend in. Antifa was actively involved in the January 6th protests and riots. This has been widely discussed by officials and in reports on this website.... The Democrat media complex has totally ignored eyewitness accounts detailing how black bloc Antifa terrorists infiltrated the peaceful MAGA demonstrations. According to a former FBI agent on the ground at the U.S. Capitol, at least one bus load of Antifa goons infiltrated the Trump rally as part of a false flag operation.”

“America just observed the anniversary of the 9/11 attacks. That solemn day is supposed to be a time for us to remember those who died at the World Trade Center Towers; at the Pentagon; in Shanksville, Pennsylvania; and those who died fighting our radical Islamist enemies overseas in the years since 9/11. Radical Islam still threatens America today. Jihadists are crossing our wide-open southern border. Radical imams are still preaching hate in many mosques. Iranian terrorists have sent assassins to kill former Trump officials....On this year’s anniversary of 9/11, the Biden Administration ignored radical Islam and used the day to demonize American conservatives....On the day that is supposed to focus our minds on the ongoing threat from radical Islam, they turned it into a day to demonize normal conservatism.”

“By his own criteria, Joe Biden sits atop the most extremist administration in decades. The disconnect between his actions and those of mainstream Americans could hardly be more profound. How? Let us count the ways: 1) Biden’s Extreme Abortion Activism; 2) Biden’s Promotion of Extreme Gender Ideology; 3) Biden’s Open Borders Extremism; 4) The Biden Administration’s Extreme Recession-Denial; 5) Biden’s Extremist Belief that More Spending Reduces Inflation; 6) Only Extremists Believe Biden Should Be Re-Elected; and 7) Only Extremists Believe Biden Is Mentally Fit for Office Now.”

“You have to think about the implications of this. The United States has a two-party political system and has for our whole lifetimes. If the leader of one party, who happens to be the President, redefines the other party not as a political party but as a criminal organization, what is he doing? Well, of course, he is demanding a one-party state, and that’s what Biden is doing, and he is using federal law enforcement to make it happen.”

“Travel abroad and or talk to pro-American foreigners here, and you will be surprised at what they say. It is not boilerplate anti-Americanism of the usual cheap Euro style.... They express disbelief, worry, and lamentation even, that the one solid referent in the world has gone, well, completely rabid. They are terrified after the Afghanistan debacle that their old ally or new homeland, the once constant America, is delirious, incompetent, and self-loathing, and now there is no plausible alternative to the old American deterrence....They seem staggered by the very ideas that now emanate from the United States: that nonexistent borders are desirable; that once rarified institutions like the FBI or CIA now function like the Stasi of old; that the very idea of meritocracy is considered racist; that one incorrect word can destroy a life-long career; that there are three or more sexes, not two; that biological men with male genitalia and physiology can compete, and destroy decades of advances, in women’s sports; that race is the sole mode of self-identification; and that half of America dislikes American customs, history – and the other 50 percent of the population – as much as do its enemies.”

“As an American, I’m not a fan of the concept of royalty, but if you’re going to have a monarch, you couldn’t ask for a better one than Elizabeth II. Even as a young teenager, she was already helping to inspire the British people during the darkest days of World War II. At 21, she pledged, ‘I declare before you all that my whole life, whether it be long or short, shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong.’ Despite the greatly-reduced powers of the throne, she kept that promise, devoting her life to her country and always serving her people with the utmost grace and stoic dignity, no matter how tumultuous the times or how ugly and unfair the criticisms hurled at her. She was a product of a different age and stronger values, and we’re not likely to see someone like her ever again.”

“Democrats are demonizing Republicans, supporters of Trump, and supporters of Florida Governor Ron DeSantis. Not exactly the best way to gain votes. As we reported, Charlie Crist – who is running against DeSantis in Florida in the governor’s race – told DeSantis supporters that he didn’t want their vote. Then Joe Biden attacked Trump supporters, saying he didn’t respect MAGA Republicans – millions of Americans – and proceeded to say they were angry, violent, and semi-fascist.... Now add New York Governor Kathy Hochul into this crazy train tactic, seemingly attacking Republicans who live in New York. ‘Just jump on a bus and head down to Florida where you belong, ok? Get out of town. Get out of town. Because you do not represent our values. You are not New Yorkers,’ Hochul said.”

“We have to put our country back on track because it has been derailed by Joe Biden, Nancy Pelosi, and Chuck Schumer. A Republican Majority must work on legislation to reopen our pipelines and put America back on the path to being energy independent again. When this goes into place, Americans will finally see gas prices go down substantially. Then, they must fund the Border Patrol which is incredibly understaffed, and the House and Senate must immediately pass legislation to unfreeze the construction of the border wall. This will stop the current flow of millions of illegal migrants that have poured into our country since Joe Biden has taken office. After that, lawlessness must be addressed. A law-and-order agenda must be a priority across the country that can be presented at the federal level by Congress. We can stop sending billions to Ukraine and use that money to fund the border and police across the country. Republicans can also work on investigating people like Hunter Biden and Dr. Fauci!"

"In the August primary, 27.28% of Brevard's eligible voters turned out. That's 123,919 of our 454,230 registered voters. When you first look at it, it seems sad that nearly three-quarters of registered voters didn't care enough to participate. But think about that. If they don't care enough to show up and vote (when early and mail balloting make it so easy) then do we really want these folks marking a ballot? I think not. How likely are they, if they did not vote, to have done any research into the candidates on the ballot? Please just stay home."

"The NFL has been on the outs with millions of patriotic fans for years. We haven't forgotten how the league allowed entitled athletes to kneel during our National Anthem. It seems that the folks in charge haven't learned a thing...The NFL cut the flag to resemble the shape of the continental United States. While that might be a common sight on t-shirts and coffee mugs, it is against U.S. code to cut up an American flag. These codes exist for a reason, so that the symbol of our liberty and democracy is treated with respect and care. But the NFL appeared to callously butcher our flag for a cheap gag during a sports game.... Cutting up the flag in such a rude way (not even properly in proportion to the country), is an insult to them. I'm sure the NFL was hoping to put its 'Anthem protest' past behind them. But it seems whoever is calling the shots still doesn't get it."

COMICAL CLOSERS

--The “Babylon Bee” conservative political satire website says the California government recommends to residents that since the state suffers from an electrical shortage, in order to charge the electric cars, they will soon have to purchase, they simply use giant spinning wheels – just like hamsters do.

The “Bee” also reported that New York Congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez has tearfully recounted how Florida Governor Ron DeSantis yanked her from her Venezuelan home and human-trafficked her to Martha’s Vineyard, where she died, and following her martyrdom, expressed hopes that Taylor Swift would sing at her somber funeral service. It added that AOC’s body would be returned to her homeland, where it will be fed to starving Venezuelans.

--A lot of folks cannot understand how we had an oil shortage in our country. There is a very simple answer. Nobody bothered to check the oil. We just didn’t know we were getting so low. The reason for that is geographical. Our oil is located in Alaska, California, Coastal Florida, Coastal Louisiana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Texas. But our dipsticks are all located in Washington, D.C.
